Life Becomes Tough Now

Inauguration Over, DiSalle Begins Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you awoke today to find yourself Governor of Ohio, would you be happy, or would you be afraid?

Michael V. DiSalle, a Toledo Democrat, awoke this morning at the governor's mansion in suburban Bexley.

He was governor. He could have been happy. He was, in a way. He could have been frightened. And he was, in a way.

He was the top man among nearly 9½ million Ohioans. It's position many seek, but few really relish.

DiSalle knew the oceans of flowers in his new office were beginning to wilt, that the over-hearty greetings of Monday will not be forthcoming today.

Today's schedule? Scores of callers at his Statehouse office, most of them wanting some favor. And upstairs: Scores of bills being introduced into the Legislature seeking some change in state laws.

Inaugural day is a wonderful episode. Joy is unrestrained. But none but the hard-nosed political realist is ready for tomorrow.

The life of Ohio's first four-year-term governor—from this point—becomes tough indeed. DiSalle was sharply reminded of this by the outgoing Republican Governor, C. William O'Neill, who reminded him:

"You are carrying Ohio's progressive banner now. I speak for all Ohio citizens. We like you. We are depending upon you."

"We believe you will rebuff those seeking special privilege, deny the greedy, resist the evil promoters and with a steady hand guide the Buckeye ship of state, holding high the torch of idealism for liberty, justice and equality for all men everywhere."

O'Neill did not stick around to

Landslide Smothers High School Youth

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—A rain soaked landslide at Lapd's End near the Golden Gate buried a high school youth Monday as he hiked with his girl friend up a cliff from China Beach.

Bill Stolter, 16, and Margaret Valentine, 15, had been taking photographs at the beach after finishing classes at Washington High School.

"Suddenly I heard a rumble, a terrible roaring noise," the girl said at Park Emergency Hospital where she was treated for shock, bruises and scratches.

She added that:

"I looked up the hill and saw it coming and I guess at the same time I jumped to the right, toward the water. I think Bill jumped the other way."

The mud and rocks crashed down over us. I don't know if I was knocked down or fell, but my foot hurt and I was buried up to my waist. I dug and scraped with my hands and after about five minutes I could pull myself out.

"I looked for Bill. He was gone."

Firemen dug for hours in an unsuccessful attempt at recovering the boy's body until police called off the digging for the night.

Trustees Move Toward Zoning

Commission Named In Perry Township

Perry Township trustees set the wheels in motion at a meeting Monday night to present a zoning plan to the residents of the township at some future election date.

The trustees adopted a resolution declaring their intention to proceed with zoning passed another resolution creating a zoning commission and then appointed five persons to serve on the commission.

They are James Cunningham, Howard Firestone, Galen Greenisen, John VanBlaricom and Fred Ruffer.

The commission is expected to meet soon to organize and then proceed with a zoning study, prepare maps and specifications to be presented to the voters for their consideration.

The township trustees are Dale Paxson, Joseph Kornbau and Joseph G. Reese. R. L. Hutcheson is township clerk.

The Area Development Council suggested zoning for the township following the adoption of a zoning plan for Salem by City Council.

The Michael Baker Engineers has offered to prepare a zoning plan for the Township at a cost of $2,500.

Mahoning Local Transfer Petition Rejected by State

The Ohio State Board of Education disapproved the transfer of a portion of Mahoning Local School District to the Salem School District during the board meeting on Monday in Columbus.

The rejection affects 30 to 40 families in the Goshen Center Elementary School area, particularly residents of the Duck Creek and Kent road vicinity.

Last July a petition signed by 90 per cent of the qualified electors in the area, was turned over to the Mahoning Local School District Board of Education, requesting that the southeast corner of Goshen Township withdraw from the Mahoning Local district.

The Mahoning Local board could take no action on the petition other than turn it over to the Mahoning County Board of Education.

At the time the Salem Board of Education expressed neutral feelings concerning the request for transfer.

Ohio Bell Maps Expansion In County District

Salem, Columbiana, Lisbon, N. Waterford Included In List

Building additions and dial equipment installations at telephone exchange locations throughout the northeastern part of Columbiana County will highlight a $620,000 expansion and service improvement program announced today for this area by Ohio Bell for the year 1959.

Salem Commercial Manager W. J. McKay disclosed details of his company's plans today as he and other local Bell officials left for Youngstown to attend a meeting during which President Walter S. Sparling outlined plans to more than 400 supervisory employees from this part of the state.

A $375,000 telephone expansion and service improvement program here will include erection of a one-story addition at the rear of the exchange building on N. Lundy Ave.

Ohio Bell anticipates adding 160 new subscribers here during the next 12 months.

Among Other Improvements

Plans for 1959 also include a $60,000 building and equipment addition at Columbiana, a $35,000 building and equipment addition at New Waterford, and the expenditure of another $75,000 to complete the new $120,000 telephone exchange now under construction at Rogers.

More dial equipment and outside cable facilities totaling $60,000 at East Palestine and $85,000 at Lisbon also have been allocated.

"All of the projects are in addition to a $300,000 building and equipment addition planned for Salem, itself, this year," Mr. McKay added.

Last year approximately 150 more telephones were added in the Columbiana exchange, 120 in Lisbon, about 50 in Leetonia and some 30 in East Palestine.

Total telephones for these exchanges at the end of December totaled 2,640 in Columbiana, 2,940 in Lisbon, 3,080 in East Palestine, 1,440 in Leetonia.

Ground Is Broken Here

Although work on the foundation for the new Salem plant addition will get underway immediately, naming of the general contractor for the project was not expected to take place until sometime next month.

About $130,000 in additional new dial equipment will be installed here this year to take care of requests for service from new subscribers and to permit present subscribers to obtain any grade of service they desire.

Outside cable projects in the Salem exchange are expected to require another $30,000 this year, and another $55,000 has been earmarked for new telephone instruments, PBX switchboards and other specialized telephone apparatus.

Mr. McKay pointed out that Ohio Bell's spending in the past 10

1958 Circulation Is Up 10 Per Cent

A total of 385 more persons used the facilities of the Salem Public Library during 1958, James Hafer, head librarian, stated in his annual report presented to the board of library trustees Tuesday.

The library started the year with 5,162 borrowers and finished the year with 5,547, an increase of almost seven per cent.

Circulation in 1958 totaled 99,770 books, an increase of 9,413 over the 1957 figure of 90,627.

This 10 per cent increase brought the library within 914 books of the all-time circulation record set in 1932 when 100,684 books were borrowed. The 1958 circulation consisted of 44,589 adult books and 55,181 juvenile books.

Castro's Courts Increase Cuba's Execution Toll

75 Persons Shot Monday; Additional Trials Are Underway

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The execution toll is mounting as Fidel Castro's military courts continue to exact vengeance for violence attributed to supporters of fallen Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

At least 145 persons had been reported executed between Batista's flight on Jan. 1 and Monday night. More speedy trials were under way, including hearings for possibly 100 prisoners in Oriente province.

The toll took a big jump Monday when revolutionary firing squads reportedly shot 75 persons near Santiago, capital of Oriente, where Castro's rebellion was centered and antirebel repression was strongest.

Officials of the provisional government claimed all cases were being fully investigated, but otherwise there was no information on the trials of the condemned men. Apparently, most were being held in secret, and by military courts rather than by the revolutionary courts the new regime has said would be established to try "war crimes" offenders.

Not all the defendants got the death penalty. Two policemen in Manzanillo were sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Approximately 3,000 persons are being held throughout Cuba. In Oriente there are about 500, according to Fidel's brother, Raul, who has been in military command in that area since Fidel's victory.

The weekly news magazine Bohemia charged that 20,000 Cubans had been killed between Batista's coming to power in 1952 and Jan. 1.

The 75 men executed in Oriente were shot in two groups, one of 14 and the other of 61, witnesses said. The executions took place at a military camp one mile from Santiago and one mile from San Juan Hill, where Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders charged the Spaniards in 1898.

Santiago military headquarters declined to confirm the executions. A reporter found a huge mound of fresh dirt, cartridge cases and tire tracks at the scene.

Atty. Miller Named To Head Dimes Drive

Atty. Earl Miller has been appointed chairman of the local March of Dimes campaign which will begin Thursday.

His selection was made by William Wark of Salem, the chairman of northern Columbiana County.

Other chairmen appointed by Mr. Wark today were Mrs. Andrew Bretz in New Waterford and Mayor Lloyd Culler in Washingtonville.

Wark said each local chairman may use their own methods of solicitation but that most money would be received through letters and canisters in stores.

The March of Dimes quota for Columbiana County is expected to be $30,000, the same as it was in 1958.

Late Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the new Republican leaders of Congress today his 77 billion dollar budget for the new fiscal year contemplates a surplus of about 100 million dollars.

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told newsmen there is hope of a tax reduction in the next two or three years if the heavily Democratic new Congress goes along with Eisenhower's spending and legislative programs.

JOYOUS REUNION — Frank Chionchio plans kiss on infant daughter, Lisa Rose, and his wife, Frances, watches during reunion with their baby Monday at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn. Baby was taken from hospital's nursery shortly after birth on Jan. 2. Infant was recovered Jan. 11 at Brooklyn home of Mrs. Jean Iavarone, 43. Phone tip led police and FBI agents to the infant's whereabouts. Mrs. Iavarone was booked yesterday on a kidnapping charge.

Widowed Mother of 8 Faces Kidnap Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Jean Iavarone, widowed mother of eight, goes to court today to face a kidnapping charge. She is accused of abducting a newborn baby to misrepresent it as her own in a marriage trap.

The 43-year-old bleached blonde was booked Monday on a charge of taking Lisa Rose Chionchio from St. Peter's Hospital Jan. 2 when the infant was 2½ hours old.

Her bail hearing in Brooklyn Felony Court was put off until today. Conviction on the charge carries a possible prison sentence of 20 years to life.

The motive for the kidnapping, police said, was Mrs. Iavarone's desire to pressure a boy friend, Joseph Pizzimenti, into marriage by having him believe he was the father.

The intense search for the child ended Sunday night. Police and FBI agents directed by a telephone tip, found the baby in Mrs. Iavarone's clean but untidy apartment in a humble section of Brooklyn.

She insisted the baby was hers.

Republican Named Vermont Governor Following Recount

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—It is now official that Republican Robert T. Stafford of Rutland is the governor of Vermont—by the narrowest margin in a Vermont gubernatorial election in 150 years.

A 56-member joint committee of the Legislature completed a recount Monday night showing Stafford beat Democrat Bernard J. Leddy of Burlington by 718 votes, 62,222 to 61,503.

Vermont has not had a Democratic governor in 105 years. In that time no Democrat has come as close to the governorship as Leddy.

The small margin in the gubernatorial race was the second phase of a Democratic showing in the state. Democrat William J. Meyer was elected to the U. S. House.

The original margin between Stafford and Leddy was 918 votes. Actually, Stafford received only 292 votes more than he needed to win the governorship in the recount. The Vermont constitution requires that a governor be elected with a majority of the ballots cast.

There were 123,859 general election votes counted. The recount committee rejected 131 ballots. Thus a total of 61,930 was needed for victory.

Leddy demanded a legislative recount under a constitutional provision not exercised since 1894.

Vote Is 72-22 To Place Curb On Debate

Senators In Sharp Disagreement Over Effect of New Rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has changed its rule governing debate, but the argument continued today over how big a step it had taken toward curbing filibusters.

"No gain at all," commented Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), one of a group of Northern and Western senators who had fought to make it easier to throttle filibusters against civil rights bills and other measures.

Called "Soothing Syrup" "A soothing syrup to lull the conscience of America," was the assessment of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-ILL), one of the leaders of the bipartisan fight for a rules change.

Some Southern senators protested that the change—any change—went too far.

But an overwhelming majority of the Senate voted 72-22 for the new rule to allow two thirds of the senators present and voting to cut off debate. A rule in effect since 1949 had required the votes of two thirds of the entire Senate membership, or 66 of the 98 senators.

The rules battle roared to its climax Monday night with senators in sharp disagreement over

Graham to Get Physical Exam At Mayo Clinic

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Ailing revivalist Billy Graham heads today for an appointment with Mayo Clinic specialists. Cautioned by Vice President Richard M. Nixon to "get some rest," he still plans a crusade in Australia.

But he is postponing the start by at least a week and is not sure whether he will be able to go through with other projected visits on a world tour.

The 40-year-old preacher may learn this week the cause of an ailment that has left him with only 50 per cent vision in his left eye. It has been described as a "rare and serious condition" by his father-in-law, a doctor.

Graham spent the night in a downtown Minneapolis hotel and plans to motor the 80 miles to the Rochester, Minn., clinic sometime today. With him will be members of his evangelistic team.

"I am sure I will recover and I have every expectation of going to Australia," Graham said. "But we have definitely canceled a meeting at the Hula Bowl in Hawaii that was set for later this month and we will have to postpone the start of the Australian crusade at Melbourne from Feb. 8 to Feb. 15."

Arriving by air Monday night from Dallas, Tex., Graham told newsmen he received a telephone call earlier in the day from Nixon in Washington, advising him to get as much rest as possible.

"He told me from personal experience he knew it was possible to win a battle and lose the war," Graham said.

Graham's trouble was described by an associate as a ruptured blood vessel behind the retina of the left eye. Dr. R. Nelson Bell, his father-in-law, advised Australian officials from Montreal, N. C. Monday that Graham's condition was rare and serious, brought on by overwork.

Two Amish Schools Headed For Long Battle With State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two Amish-operated high schools appear headed for a long battle with the State of Ohio and the State School Board over minimum educational standards.

E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction, Monday gave the school board a report which stated the two schools of the Menonite religious sect, known as the "Old Order Amish," do not meet the state's minimum standards.

The board, by a 19-2 vote, approved a resolution confirming the department's findings and called on the State Department of Education to give "all lawful assistance to local authorities in the enforcement of minimum standards, whether through school attendance laws or any other appropriate means."

The resolution thus put the responsibility of enforcing the standards on the local school superintendents.

Henry Hershberger of Apple Creek, representing the Amish school committee, said: "It seems that our way is quite different than what the public demands; we don't like to disobey the law, in fact the Amish Church enjoins that we obey the law of the land."

He asked that the group be given more time and that a meeting of the Amish bishops might be called to discuss the matter.

John W. Morrison of Aurora, who with Russell Hay of Coshocot cast the only two dissenting votes, said the board ought to be more concerned about crime waves and liquor sales to children than attempting to set standards for the two schools. One of the schools is located three miles west of Holmesville in Holmes County; the other is three miles west of Sugar Creek in Tuscarawas County.

Joy told the board: "Let's give them a chance to upgrade themselves, whatever length of time that may be."

When asked why the Amish would not send their children to public or private schools that do meet the state standards, Hershberger answered:

"Worldly wisdom taught in public schools conflicts with our way of life. Our religion is built around simplicity."

When Loren E. Souers Jr. of Canton, a board member, asked Hershberger if the schools could have qualified vocational teachers, plus Amish religious teachers, Hershberger replied that it would be hard for them to have so many different teachers.

Hershberger said he felt what was needed was a court test, that there was a question of inalienable rights involved in the problem.

Searchers Reach Downed Aircraft

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Rescuers reached the shattered hulk of an Air Force plane high on an Alaskan glacier Monday and began the task of bringing out the bodies of nine crewmen.

The crippled C124 failed to clear a 5,200-foot mountain range late Sunday as it came in, with two of four engines out, for an emergency landing at Homer on the tip of the Kenai Peninsula. The giant plane was demolished as it struck Petrof Glacier between the 3,000 and 4,000 foot levels.

The C124 took off from McChord AFB in Washington about noon Saturday on a flight to Kodiak, Alaska. It carried more than 17 tons of classified military cargo.

Lisbon Man To Develop Industrial Site

LISBON — Robert A. Williams of Lisbon has purchased the Hood Chemical Co. property for the development of an industrial site, it was announced today. The purchase price was not revealed.

The area, comprising some 13 acres, is situated just outside the southern boundary line of the village on the south side of the middle fork of the Little Beaver Creek.

The National Brass and Copper Co., one of the village's leading industries in the early days, was located there before the property was sold to the Hood Chemical Co. which has its main office in Ardmore, Pa. Hood is expected to move to a new location west of Akron within six to eight months.

Mr. Williams, 38, is engaged in lumber, steel fabricating, construction, pre-cut homes and trucking businesses. His firms are the Lisbon Lumber Co., Williams and Co., Brown and Williams Construction Co., and the Williams Trucking Co.

All the firms are located in Lisbon except the Brown and Williams company which is in East Liverpool but is expected to be moved to the new location in Lisbon within the next 30 days. The firm presently is constructing the new $350,000 parochial school at Steubenville.

The area is served by the Erie Railroad with three spurs into the plant area.

Williams expects to have two sites available for industries as soon as some repairs are made in the plant located there. The former water tower will be renovated for fire protection for the plants.

Working Together for Salem

There's merit to Mayor Harold Smith's suggestion of an economic and industrial committee to work in Salem's behalf.

Collectively, the groups which have been suggested for membership could become a vocal and persuasive force united in a common objective of promoting industrial expansion and economic stability.

If the committee is organized at a meeting Monday it will duplicate some committees already functioning within the Chamber of Commerce but, broadened in scope, it may be able to play a prominent role in helping the city's future growth and prosperity.

It is probably not the mayor's intention to work apart from the Chamber of Commerce but, rather, to augment the good work that the C. of C. already is doing.

Working together, the Chamber of Commerce, the Mayor's Committee, the Area Development Council, the Salem Civic Committee and others, can form a united front for a common objective — a better community for the people of Salem.

"Working together" might well be the secret of Salem's future success.

Individually, we, too often, just mark time. United, we can march forward to greater accomplishments. Let's try it in 1959.

Mikoyan Busier Than a Bird Dog

When you grow tired of hating Cyrus S. Eaton for hobnobbing with high-placed Russians like Anastas Mikoyan, deputy premier of the Soviet Union, trying thinking of the hobnobbing from the Russians' point of view. When a Communist hobnobs with a capitalist, it's news from both points of view.

Mr. Eaton has made it clear that he is looking for areas of agreement with the Russians on economic matters. He is under heavy criticism from Americans who are afraid he might be looking for areas of agreement on ideological matters, too—but that is as unlikely as it is that the three-horse buggy, complete with horses, that Premier Khrushchev has sent to him will replace the U.S. automobile.

There is economic negotiating going on. Mikoyan is busier than a bird dog working at his specialty in the Soviet hierarchy, which is breed-and-butter negotiation. In Cyrus Eaton, the Russians have found a made-to-order contact for their interest in economics. He is a professional businessman with a cosmopolitan outlook. He is too well established and too well along in years to be afraid of politicians in his own or any other country. He dares to say and do things that most businessmen cannot afford to say and do.

Whether he is right or wrong is beside the point. The point is that Mikoyan and his government are looking for areas of agreement on economic matters. Under the circumstances, it does not bother them to hobnob with capitalists any more than it bothers a capitalist like Cyrus Eaton to be host to a delegation of visiting Communists.

IF A SHOOTING war can be averted, the alternative seems likely to be economic competition that will color every event of the next half century.

The Soviet Union has brought itself abreast of the industrial revolution in remarkable short time. Red China, the other powerful partner in the industrial revolution, is making giant strides, too.

In Europe elsewhere in Asia and in Latin America there is the same upsurge of industrial effort. The United States, which sometimes has had the illusion it had a monopoly on mass production and the benefits of efficient industrial production, is destined to be in competition of an intensity it never dreamed of in the past.

It will be looking for markets in every corner of the earth, including the Soviet Union. And Russian industry, in turn, will be looking for markets in the United States. This is the alternative to the shooting war that no one wants. It is the natural outgrowth of the cold war that no one wants either.

IF THE RUSSIAN government finally has become sure enough of its strength that it can quit letting its international policy be shaped by its inferiority complex, it can concentrate on economic competition.

That apparently is why its No. 1 economic specialist is here. That is why he can be as agreeable to an American capitalist as the capitalist can be to him. They are talking the same language, when they talk about economic competition. They can be worlds apart in every other respect and still understand each other perfectly on the age-old subject of a business deal, which antedated both capitalism and Marxism by roughly a million years.

Are Dollars Worth Saving?

One of the things that will be said about President Eisenhower if he puts up a fight for a balanced budget is that he is more interested in money than in progress.

"Spendocrats" in Congress will sneer that he is just an Abilene, Kan., boy who does not understand why it is necessary to nick taxpayers for all the revenue that can be squeezed out of them. "Spendocrats" think of the perfect state as one in which political authority can turn on spending the way they turn on water, without worrying about the source of supply.

What, then, would be the President's motive for putting up a last-ditch fight for a balanced budget? What would he be trying to prove?

What is the purpose of balancing the budget anyway?

The answer is never given by "Spendocrats." It is the one thing they never mention.

The only purpose of balancing the budget is to save what is left of the value of dollars. It is to convince Americans and the international neighbors of the United States that this government is strong enough to practice what it preaches about stable currencies and sound credit.

It is to preserve the dollar's status as the world's most sought-after symbol of value. It is to give the international community confidence in monetary exchange with the United States and in the financial responsibility of the U.S. government, a primary source of international credit.

There is a scare over the dollar's long-range future. Sooner or later, the United States either must prove to the world its currency is backed by a solid sense of financial responsibility, or dollars will be depreciated as disastrously as pounds, francs and rubles have been depreciated.

This is President Eisenhower's motive to protect the dollar. Spendocrats will never mention it. He, himself, cannot say too much about it, lest he undermine the faith he is trying to strengthen. His sense of executive responsibility will be used against him in blasts against his leadership by irresponsible men getting ready to coax votes by promoting bigger and better distributions of ever cheaper money to citizens they estimate are too dumb to understand the deception.

If the President is doomed to lose the battle of the budget, as everyone is predicting, it behooves every citizen to know what the issue is. Whether or not dollars are worth saving?

Once Over

What is Cyrus S. Eaton, famous American industrialist, to do with three white horses and carriage given him by Nikita Khrushchev?

The team is a three-horse hitch. Everybody knows Cyrus didn't get where he is by doing a Ben Hur act. No cultural exchange program has mentioned horses. He will make no hit in Cleveland streets driving three Russian white steeds around town, even as a gesture in favor of less friction with Soviet Union. He may wind up declaring the gift a Russian act of aggression.

Nikita sent Vladimir Fomen and Nikolai Barkov, a trainer and a horse doctor, over with the animals. This will help Mr. Eaton say, "Giddyap" in Russian even if he decides to shout, "Whoa," in English.

But when yelling either command to three horses when they are in a cantankerous mood it takes more than words to get results. It can't be done through a board of directors a prospectus or a quarterly report of good earnings.

WE WOULD THINK Cyrus would not feel very flattered. How can he be when Nikita sends a super rocket to the moon but thinks three-horse surrey with the fringe on the top will do for America?

The animals are named Otklick, Konus and Naturskikh. (On Otklick, on Konish, on all with the heat on! To the top of the wall to the top of the Eaton!) Mr. Mikoyan has paid a visit to Cyrus. Maybe he brought a currycomb and some harness oil. The Cleveland capitalist sent Nikita a prize bull. (but no tuxedo costume.)

Mr. Eaton is an industrialist who thinks the U.S. attitude toward the Soviet could well be less chilly and that peace can come only through a warmer association and broader understandings. If those three white skinnies bolt in Cleveland traffic, register "Nyet" to "Whoa-a-a-a," bust through a fence and toss Cyrus out on his ear, he may change his mind.

A.T.&T. IS at a new high. This reflects a belief the telephone is here to stay that more and more women are using it for morning gossip and that the nickel is dead.

Eighty-one N.Y. judges have had pay raised to $34,500 a year. This is one field where it pays to be benched.

Fidel Castro is no revolutionist who came up from the streets. He was born to wealth. The son of a rich sugar planter, he was obviously well able to take his "lumps."

Even with airlines running to Florida again, countless winter tourists are far behind planned schedules. "I can get there in under four hours and yet be six weeks late," oaned one tourist who had hoped to be in Florida by mid-December. "I can't even remember the horse tips." This is rough. Average Florida vacationist plays the skinnies and gets easily thrown off his form by delayed contact.

Tropical tourists like to have their suntans well under way early. We always feel depressed if our skin is still white a week after New Year's and our beeper unblistered with its accustomed speed. The free spender with a sizable boodle feels uncomfortable if he is slowed up in extravagances and can feel heartbroken if he finds he is far behind

These theories are now being discussed by some top economists:

That there won't be another recession — even a mild one — for at least five years.

That the next recessions, when they do come, will be milder and shorter.

That maybe there won't ever be another great depression.

Why the change? A research revolution is expected to bloom in 1959 and 1960 and flower out in the 1960's. It is expected to be strong enough — with other new forces — to put a damper on the ups and downs of business cycles and flatten out recessions.

As a by-product, this research revolution could hold back the heavy inflation that some experts fear for 1960 or 1961.

IT COULD FORCE American companies to keep spending for new capital goods at a fast pace — even in a recession — by making industrial equipment quickly obsolete. Industry would have to keep modernizing at a rapid rate to meet competition, much as chemical companies do today. The de-equipment buying by industry from time to time is considered one major cause of recessions.

It could ease the recurrent periods of slackened spending by consumers. A research-bolstered heavy flow of new products, and major improvements in old products, would constantly lure consumers to buy. In this era of higher unemployment payments, consumers have the money to spend even in recessions.

It could create so many new industries — as atomic energy, electronics, missiles and plastics have been created in the recent past — that the up and down cycles of one industry would be balanced out by the downs and ups of another, thus leveling off industrial booms and recessions.

THERE WERE already signs of this damper effect in the 1957-58 recession. Though industry cut back expansion programs sharply, buying of machinery and equipment for modernization held at a high level. Buying of automation equipment, electrical machinery, computers and materials handling equipment slipped only eight per cent in the recession.

Consumer buying held up well despite the slide in automobile purchases. Research and development spending by private industry moved up another billion dollars in the year.

There are even more signs of the change in the works for 1959, 1960 and 1961.

Unchallenged Thesis

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The President's sermon on thrift to the Congress and to the American people is based on the practically unchallenged thesis:

Only by prudent economy can the nation ward off further inflation. But will it try to?

The rub comes in this: Will the Congress, and the people it represents, care enough about fighting a future and somewhat nebulous inflation to do without the present sugar plums the President's new economy drive proposes to withhold?

Supposing the Congress goes along — and the President points out that Congress alone holds the purse strings — many industries will be cut off from some orders they would get from freer federal spending. The first economy drive some two years ago showed how quickly some industries could be hurt when Uncle Sam tightened up on his spending.

The President offers the classic indictment of government spending in excess of income, with the end result of whittling away the purchasing power of the dollar:

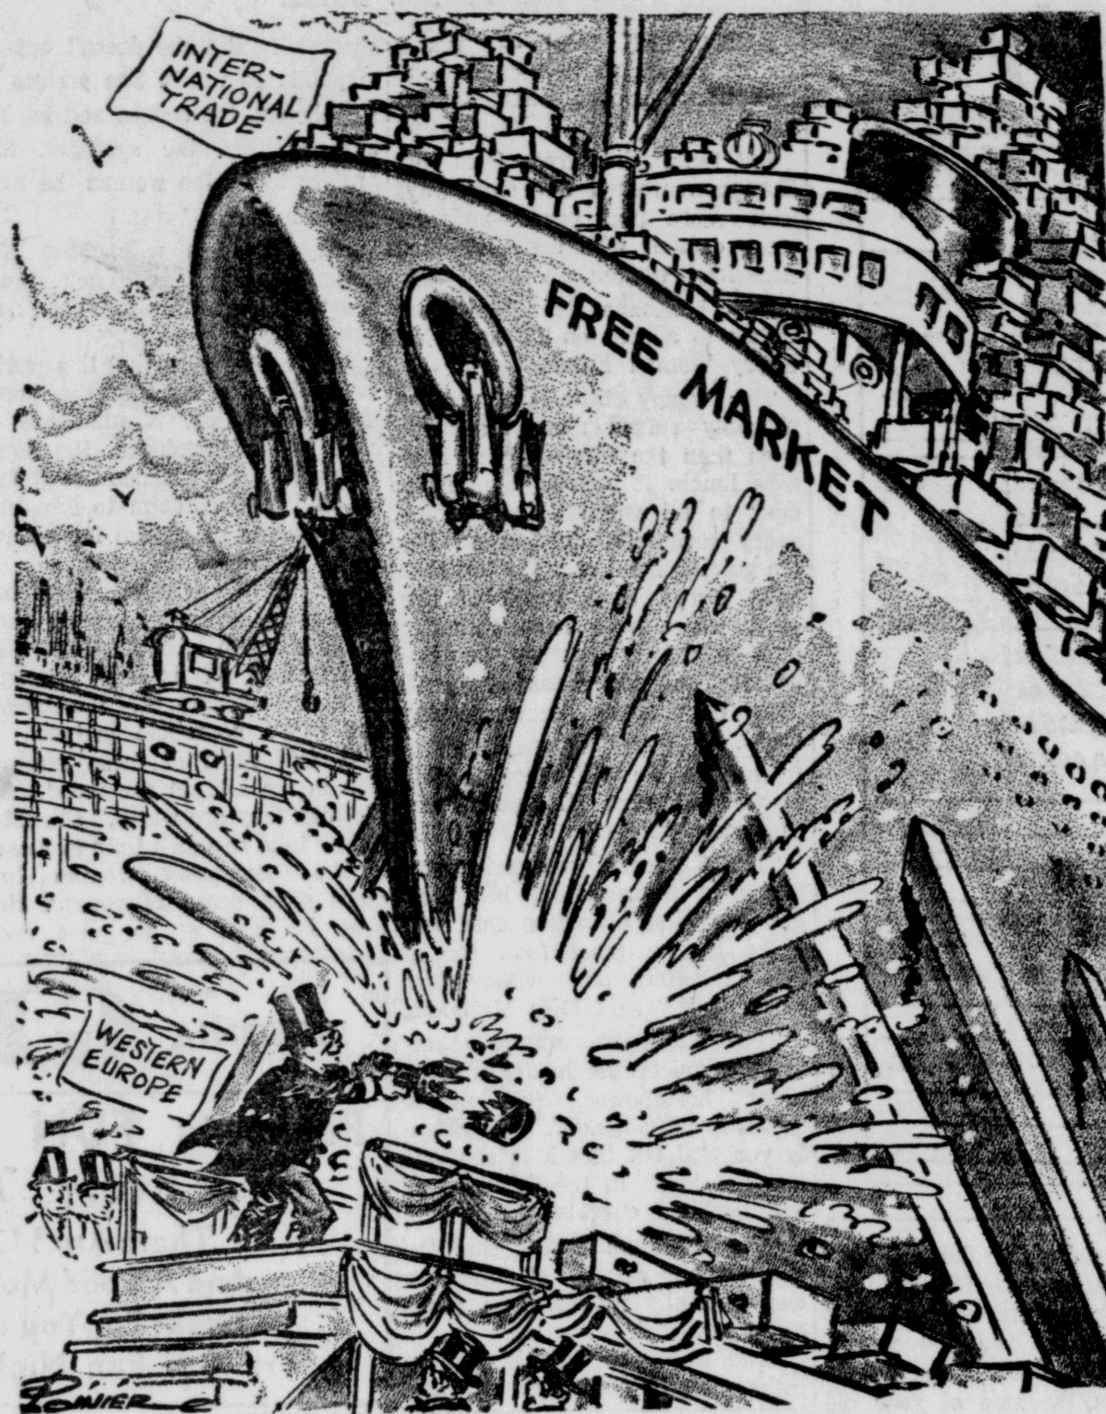

"Inflation is not a Robin Hood, taking from the rich to give to the poor. Rather, it deals most cruelly with those who can least protect themselves. It strikes hardest those millions of our citizens whose incomes do not quickly rise with the cost of living."

The proposed economy would end the federal deficit financing, which the President lists along with the wage-price spiral as basic causes of inflation.

If Congress fools the experts and approves tight budgeting, what would it do to present business expectations?

A realistic appraisal of most of the predictions of good times in 1959 shows that one of the factors they strongly count upon is a rise in government spending — at the federal, state and local levels — and spending beyond the amounts the President says he will propose to Congress.

Research May Deter Recession

By RAY CROMLEY

A research-bolstered heavy flow of new products, and major improvements in old products, would constantly lure consumers to buy. In this era of higher unemployment payments, consumers have the money to spend even in recessions.

It could create so many new industries — as atomic energy, electronics, missiles and plastics have been created in the recent past — that the up and down cycles of one industry would be balanced out by the downs and ups of another, thus leveling off industrial booms and recessions.

THERE WERE already signs of this damper effect in the 1957-58 recession. Though industry cut back expansion programs sharply, buying of machinery and equipment for modernization held at a high level. Buying of automation equipment, electrical machinery, computers and materials handling equipment slipped only eight per cent in the recession.

Consumer buying held up well despite the slide in automobile purchases. Research and development spending by private industry moved up another billion dollars in the year.

There are even more signs of the change in the works for 1959, 1960 and 1961.

The nation's steel mills have considerable more capacity than they will need for some time. But steel is already starting the installation of new super oxygen furnaces for steel making, calculated to cut operating costs by a quarter. They're working on money-saving methods for the direct reduction of iron ore. They're developing a method of continuous casting for carbon steel expected to save $5 a ton.

THE NATION'S banks are starting on a mammoth program of automation in handling checks.

Chemical makers are branching out in a revolutionary new field of plastics for building and construction. Paper companies are going into the output of disposable sheets and clothing. Aluminum makers aim at cutting into the steel market with all-aluminum auto engines.

The billions in research on military electronics are resulting in the development of startling new electronic equipment for peace-time business and industry.

What's back of this research revolution? What makes it different from the past? Plain and simply put, it's the sheer weight of the dollars being spent on research. Before World War I, industry put 25 million dollars a year in research and development.

The big step-up began seven years ago. By 1953 industry was spending 3½ billion dollars. This year the figure is expected to hit 9 billion, 360 times the research before World War I and even 18 times the early World War II figure.

The effects of scientific research are slow in coming. It's six or seven years or more — sometimes a lot more — from the test tube or laboratory to practical industrial use. So this year, next year and in 1961, industry will begin to feel the effects of the new strong push on research which began about seven years ago.

Because industrial research in 1961 will be almost four times what industry spent in 1952, the research-caused economic upsurge should grow through the 1960's at a steady rate.

Ringing Words

Ike's Statement to Mikoyan Had Importance

The most sensational section of President Eisenhower's address to Congress last Friday seems not to have made the big headlines in many newspapers in this region. Yet the fact that he said what he did particularly while Anastas Mikoyan is in this country, can hardly be without considerable significance, especially to the men in the Kremlin — if they really care to learn what is actually blocking a Soviet-American understanding today.

For the President's statement was perhaps the strongest declaration about the Soviet Union made by any president of the United States since the close of World War II. Here are Mr. Eisenhower's exact words: "We cannot build peace through desire alone. Moreover, we have learned the bitter lesson that international agreements, historically considered by us as sacred, are regarded in Communist doctrine and in practice to be mere scraps of paper."

"The most recent proof of their disdain of international obligations, solemnly undertaken, is their announced intention to bado their responsibilities respecting Berlin."

"As a consequence, we can have no confidence in any treaty to which Communists are a party except where such a treaty provides within itself for self-enforcing mechanisms. Indeed, the demonstrated disregard of the Communists of their own pledges is one of the greatest obstacles to success in substituting the rule of law for rule by force."

This is the most severe indictment of the Communists that any Western government has made in recent years.

ON TOP of it has just come nevertheless a grandiose proposal from Moscow that "peace talks" over the Berlin issue be held with the 22 governments allied in the last war.

It's the same old game of presenting in a spectacular manner to the world the picture of a Soviet government supposedly anxious to talk peace and make peace. But there's no evidence that the Communist regime will respect whatever written agreement may be consummated.

President Eisenhower realizes, of course, that the United States, to satisfy world opinion must exhibit a constant willingness to talk. He adds therefore, in his message: "Yet, step by step, we must strengthen the institutions of peace — a peace that rests upon justice — a peace that depends upon a deep knowledge and clear understanding by all peoples including our own, of the causes and possible consequences of failure in this great purpose."

Thereupon the President sets forth the only guarantee of peace today — armed strength. He says: "To achieve this peace, we seek to prevent war at any place and in any dimension. If, despite our best efforts, a local dispute should flare into armed hostilities, the next problem would be to keep the conflict from spreading and so compromising freedom. In support of these objectives we maintain forces of great power and flexibility."

"Our formidable air striking forces are a powerful deterrent to general war. Large and growing portions of these units can depart from their bases in a matter of minutes."

SIMILAR FORCES are included in our naval fleets. Ground and other tactical formations can move with swiftness and precision when requested by friendly and responsible governments, to help curb threatened aggression.

The stabilizing influence of this capacity has been dramatically demonstrated more than once over the past year.

"Our military and related scientific progress has been highly gratifying. Great strikes have been made in the development of ballistic missiles. Intermediate-range missiles are now being deployed in operational units. The Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile program has been marked by rapid development as evidenced by recent successful tests."

Missile training units have been established and launching sites are far along in construction. New aircraft that fly twice the speed of sound are entering our squadrons. The significance of this military analysis is the use of those words which indicate what is actually operational today — not what is on the drawing board or in the testing stages.

As of this very day or month, the United States and its allies have the deterrent power to prevent any nuclear attack because the certainty of destruction of any enemy that starts such a war is well known to the Kremlin.

So, with no reliance to be placed on the word of the perfidious Communist regime, the real chance for the change in the whole picture may have to come through economic pressures from Western Europe that will eventually cause a successful uprising inside the Soviet Union and the captive countries contiguous to it.

Only when a free government emerges in Moscow, whose word can be trusted, will "the world be made safe for democracy."

The principle is as sound today as when President Wilson expounded it in his war message of April 1917.

Congressional Predictions

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This will be a busy, interesting and probably productive Congress. It is unlikely to seem spectacular if only because very little ever does in the grinding legislative mill.

It will be self-conscious, perhaps just a little less conservative than the previous Congress and, despite plenty of conflict, its personal relations with President Eisenhower may not curdle very much.

Democrats and Republicans in this Congress can not help being self-conscious: Its two-year term will be drawing to a close at the time of the 1960 elections when voters choose a new Congress and a new president.

Both groups know their performance these next two years will be a major factor in the election outcome — for themselves and their party — and that the next president may be chosen from this Congress.

It hardly seems in the cards for this heavily Democratic Congress to get into feuding, name-calling and bitterness with Eisenhower in his last two White House years.

During his first six years his relations with Congress members have been unusually polite and restrained, except in political campaigns. There does not seem much reason for change.

For this reason: Without resorting to slam-bang, the Democrats were still able to win control of Congress in three successive elections while Eisenhower himself remained highly popular.

Nevertheless, there will be broad conflicts between Eisenhower and the Democrats in Congress on the programs he wants and the kind they want.

Some people thought, after last November's elections, that this would be a much more liberal Congress than last year. But in the first showdowns on strength this year conservatives showed they are still in charge.

In the Senate, a coalition of liberals from both parties lost heavily in their first test of strength in a fight over the rules.

Liberal Republicans on opening day tried to name one of their own number their Senate leader, but they were defeated by a majority of conservative Republicans who picked Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois.

House Republicans are still under conservative leadership. They were simply replacing an older man with a younger one when they substituted Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana for their old time leader, Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts.

The two Texans who lead the Democrats in Congress—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, are both conservative. So are a majority of the Democrats who are committee chairmen in both houses.

Still, the voters sent a lot of New men to Congress this year, some of whom are expected to take the liberal side. So, while liberals are not in the majority, their ranks have been strengthened.

They should be able to exert some pressure. Particularly Sen. Johnson is not likely to ignore them. Even though he out-manuevered them on the rules change he is still making some concessions to them.

He is a great compromiser, anxious to have his big Democratic majority work together as much as possible.

He yields a little to each of the opposing groups to reach a kind of middle ground. This may not satisfy either side completely, but still shows some movement without leaving either completely dissatisfied.

Inside Labor

By Victor Rieser

Those who are not being beastly to Comrade Anastas Mikoyan, second in command of the Soviet Union, should know that our intelligence agencies have the visiting tovarisch listed as a former chief of economic espionage specializing in the U.S.

Bluntly and brutally, the visitor now befitted in our best places was under assignment from Joseph Stalin to steal our basic research and newest industrial secrets in the war's final years.

Working under Miayan were spy rings about which the public never learned. But from these rings, Mikoyan funneled some of the industrial developments which have enabled the Russians to beat us into outer space. Mikoyan was not just another member of the Soviet Union's Politburo making general policy.

The now genial visitor wrote the espionage orders himself. He handed them to secret agents for transmission to America in Soviet diplomatic pouches.

THERE WERE, in turn, handed to Comintern representatives as well as hundreds of lesser Soviet officials in the U.S.

Some of the orders were passed on to pro-Soviet labor leaders, long since exposed. These men, Americans and Russians, were working daily right in the innards of our most guarded industries.

That was in the days when Comrade Mikoyan officially was the Soviet Union's foreign trade minister.

To get some of this pedigree on the man now here for a "soft sell" of the Soviets to the American people, you need not have access to any cloak and dagger bureau dossier. You need only find one man still active in Washington and New York.

He is one of Mikoyan's former aides Victor Kravchenko by name. Back in the war years, Kravchenko was economic attaché of the U.S.S.R. Purchasing Commission in Washington. But he chose freedom. He broke with the Soviets.

Later, in April 1947, he swore under oath publicly to what he had secretly told our counter-intelligence agencies during the intervening years.

KRAVCHENKO told the House Un-American Activities Committee:

"One more fact. Mikoyan, this foreign trade minister sent an order, a very secret order.

"All the responsible, prominent members, the Soviet representatives in the U.S., (telling them) how to carry on economic espionage and on what special problems in the U.S." Kravchenko said describing the Mikoyan order.

"This document was delivered to special secret agents in Washington and, it goes without saying, was delivered, thanks to diplomatic immunity. In the same way secret party orders were delivered to Washington from the Central Committee of the party. . . .

"I must state in general that no person holding an important position in connection with the economic, political and military organizations and arriving in the U.S. from the Soviet Union arrives without a special assignment as to the collection of secret information."

All this is known in detail to the top AFL-CIO leaders at their Washington headquarters.

THEY WERE, therefore, surprised, chagrined and some of them bitter and angered when they learned that James Carey, a member of the AFL-CIO's eight-man executive committee, had invited Mikoyan to a special creamed chicken lunch at his union headquarters.

Some of the labor leaders assumed no undue subtlety in telling this to Carey when he personally telephoned Monday evening and Tuesday morning to ask them to sit with the Soviet officials.

Among those who turned Carey down were AFL-CIO President George Meany and the Machinists' leader Al Hayes. They said they would not sit with a representative of the nation under whose guns hundreds of working people die each day.

There were those who resented this hospitality to Mikoyan because he arrived in the midst of violent anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic propaganda campaigns inside the Soviet Union.

Mr. Carey president of the International Union of Electrical Workers also attempted to interest Lewellyn Thompson, U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, who now is in Washington. Mr. Thompson said, in effect, "It's all yours, Jim. I wouldn't touch him."

Just what does it take on the Soviets' part for some of our people to treat them as we treated the Nazis — of which they are but a different hue?

New Approach At Unemployment Needed

It's Your Pocketbook

By FAYE HENLE
(NEA Staff Writer)

Not long ago we kept hearing that prosperity was a sure thing. What made it so certain was the anticipated population increase of the 1960's and '70's which would provide a ready market for all the goods and services this nation can produce.

Suddenly, this population growth takes on another aspect. We are told there will not be enough jobs around for all who wish and need to work. Don't listen to this one. It's an old refrain, as wrong today as it was 25 years ago.

Yet, the employment issue will be one of the first put to the new Congress.

UNION LEADERS will demand that the economy be pushed to a full employment level. They will contest the recovery on the grounds that an uncomfortable number of workers have still found no jobs. They will ask more government aid, not so much perhaps in the form of cash benefits, but in the area of creating jobs.

What we are suffering is a dislocation in the job market. Over the past decade, industry has spent some 300 billion dollars on new plant and mechanical equipment, most of it intended to cut production costs.

Today, these plants are able to equal previous output — perhaps exceed it if necessary — with 10 to 15 per cent fewer workers. It is only a waste of time and effort to insist workers be rehired in industries or on jobs for which they are no longer needed.

There is little new in this dislocation of workers. It has occurred repeatedly in our economy. There is little doubt that it will recur. What's more, it is a welcome, a healthy phenomenon.

WHEN INDUSTRY operates at a profit, it has been traditional to plow those profits back into research. Ultimately, new products, whole new industries, are discovered. Along with these discoveries come a host of new job opportunities.

The way whole segments of the population earn their livelihoods today differs markedly from the way they did 25 years ago.

Between 1929 and last year that wonderful era when television, the electronic industry, wonder drugs and synthetic fibers were born, a year when automobile production alone jumped by some 1.6 million cars, employment in the goods-producing industries gained but 56 per cent to the 77.1 per cent gain in distribution and service industries.

Take a single year, a year when employment was on the rise. In 1957, 1½ per cent fewer people were employed in goods-producing industries while employment in service and distribution gained almost 2 per cent above the previous year.

If you are jobless today, see how quickly you can shift your occupation to one that will provide steady work. A consultation with your local U. S. Department of Labor bureau can offer you the best possible guidance for new training, plus a rundown on job opportunities in your locale.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Horton

Hines-Horton Nuptials Held In Church at Williamsburg

Dale Horton and his bride, the former Miss Edith Marilyn Hines, are residing at 512 Oak St., Cincinnati 19, having returned from a honeymoon trip to New York City.

The couple was married Dec. 28 in the First Presbyterian Church in Williamsburg, with the Rev. John H. Cowan officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hines of Williamsburg. Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Horton of E. 9th St. are parents of the bridegroom.

A holiday theme prevailed in the wedding appointments. The altar was banked with white poinsettias, and in each of the church windows there was an arrangement of red poinsettias and lighted candles.

The bride wore a chapel length gown of white bouquet taffeta. Rembronded appliques accentuated the neckline and hipline of the fitted torso bodice. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to a tiara adorned with sequins. The bridal bouquet contained white poinsettias and a white orchid.

Miss Rosalie Medary and Miss Judy Templin, both staff nurses at Bethesda Hospital in Cincinnati, were maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. Miss Susan Wingo of Williamsburg was flower girl.

The attendants wore street-length dresses of Christmas red velvet and headpieces of white fur, and each carried a single red poinsettia on a white muff.

Dean Horton of Cincinnati was his brother's best man. Triangle Fraternity brothers, Philip Stelts of Leetonia and John Savage of Medway, ushered.

The bride's mother wore an Alice blue silk gown with navy blue accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Horton's poude blue wool ensemble also was complemented by navy blue accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A reception followed in the church social rooms. For her going away outfit, the bride chose a brown sheath and wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Mr. Horton is a senior at the University of Cincinnati, and his wife is on the staff at Bethesda Hospital in Cincinnati.

The bridegroom's parents, who were hosts at the rehearsal dinner at Tipp's Inn at Williamsburg, also entertained here in their home Saturday night at an open reception honoring the newlyweds. They received more than 100 guests from Salem, Cleveland, Wickliffe, and Fort Worth, Tex.

Mrs. Robert Middeker and Mrs. Ralph Tolerton presided at the refreshment table, which was laid with a white linen cutwork cloth and decorated with a centerpiece of white mums, red carnations and white candles.

High Rising Spring Suit Is a Return To Fitted Classic

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

The high rising look of the new spring suits stem from two factors: jackets are shorter and the waistlines are higher.

There never has been a spring in which suit jacket designs were so varied and offered so much choice. The basic cut may be straight, partially curved or tapered but the changes rung on these three are many.

And right here, there's a suit trend worth reporting: the return of the fitted suit. So far it's just a whisper. Where it does appear, it's a very gentle fitting, not at all what we regarded as fitted in the past. But the indications are there that in another season or two, the fitted suit will be back with us. If a suit is a long-term investment for you, this is something to bear in mind when you shop for a spring suit.

If, on the other hand, you buy several suits a year, then you will want at least one of the suits with jacket belted at the Empire waistline. You will also want one with brief jacket that hangs straight from the shoulders and possibly a third with a scarf neckline.

Collars generally are high wide and open. Many are notched. Skirts for the most part are straight, slim and short. By short is meant just below the knee since leg lengths differ and hem lengths therefore differ too.

Glen plaids and checks are back on the spring scene, often done

CRUISE CLOTHES WITH A CASUAL look and a light protection against shipboard breezes are just what the winter vacationer needs. with short, wide, pleated skirts. And there's lots of color for the new spring suits. There are brilliant pinks, bright and soft blues, olive greens, beige tones from oatmeal to caramel, poppy red and gold. Black makes its bow in suits of Italian silk.

Mikoyan Visits Television Show

Will Meet Saturday With Eisenhower

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Visiting Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan capped a busy Los Angeles tour with a surprise appearance on a local television show Monday night.

The bustling Soviet official hobbled with movie stars, college students and dyed-in-the-wool capitalists before dashing through Hollywood in a police-led caravan to keep the hastily made TV date.

Neither Egg Nor Epithet

Not an egg, tomato or epithet was hurled at Mikoyan all day, in sharp contrast to his earlier visits in Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco. Police and State Department representatives kept him under close guard and will shepherd him to the airport today for his return flight to New York.

On the 25-minute TV program, Mikoyan answered a set of questions—carefully approved beforehand—that were submitted by commentator Paul Coates.

Mikoyan described himself, as he has throughout his United States tour, as a friendly grandfather who feels the differences between the U.S. and the Soviet Union can best be resolved by working closer together, especially in trade.

Could the dispute over the West's occupation of Berlin lead to a war? asked Coates.

We Do Not Want War

"As far as we are concerned, we do not want a war," Mikoyan said through an interpreter. "But it is up to the other side to keep peace."

Earlier in the day, Mikoyan was asked for comment on whether his Saturday meeting with President Eisenhower in Washington might help resolve the Berlin situation.

"I don't know what we will discuss at this time," he said. "But we will discuss everything that will be of interest to Mr. Eisenhower." He merely shrugged when asked whether the Berlin dispute would come up.

Mikoyan lunched with such enthusiastic free enterprisers as oil millionaire Edwin Pauley, aircraft executive Cyril Chappellet and movie mogul Sam Goldwyn.

From there the motorcade swung through red traffic lights to nearby Paramount Studios.

Talks With Brando
Mikoyan, followed by a large group of reporters and photographers, dropped in on two sound stages. On the set of "One-Eyed Jack" he held a zany bilingual conversation with Marlon Brando. The actor spoke to Mikoyan in French, and the Soviet deputy answered in Russian to an interpreter who relayed it to Brando in French.

When he walked onto a nearby set where Jerry Lewis was making "Don't Give Up the Ship," the comedian quipped:

"Is this the guy? He looks like Aaron Lebadoff."

Mikoyan joined in the laughter when it was explained that Lebadoff was a well-known comic of the Yiddish theater.

Kidnap

claiming she had delivered it by herself the night of Jan. 2.

Medical evidence contradicted her claim. Blood tests, the baby's footprints and a physical examination of Mrs. Iavarone established the baby's identity and ruled out the woman's story, police said.

Before the results of the medical tests were made known, the infant's father, Frank, 28, joyfully made positive identification from a small birthmark over the left eye and he said, "her beautiful hands and feet."

The baby, in good health, was returned Monday to the arms of her happy, tearful 26-year-old mother, Frances. In a jubilant reunion at St. Peter's Hospital, the mother said it was the happiest day of her life.

Detectives quoted Mrs. Iavarone as naming Pizzimenti, owner of a fruit and vegetable store, as the infant's father and as saying she had lived with him several months last summer.

Senate

what the effect of the new rule will be.

Triumph For Johnson

But no one questioned that the outcome was a spectacular triumph for Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

The change in rules went through just the way he proposed it on the opening day of the new Congress last Wednesday. Johnson and other Senate leaders of both parties called it a reasonable, middle-of-the-road solution.

Douglas said, however, that it marked a great victory for Southern senators.

With the aid of conservative Republicans, he said, they had been able "not to blurt but to reverse the drive for civil rights and an effective antifilibuster rule."

In contrast, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), said "it is a sad day when the Senate of the United States demeans itself by imposing new restraints" on freedom of debate.

DiSalle

hear his successor take the oath of office. He and his aides left the Capitol quickly.

DiSalle spoke for nearly 15 minutes in his inaugural remarks.

"We will try to administer your state with every bit of economy possible," he said. "We will meet decent standards for the charges of the state. We will keep the citizens of Ohio completely informed of the good and the bad."

"I pledge to you all of my efforts, all of my abilities to bring to the people of Ohio the best government possible."

After that, DiSalle and the state's new first lady, Mrs. Myrtle DiSalle, shook thousands of hands in a public reception in the Statehouse rotunda.

And while they were greeting well-wishers, so were the other state officials inaugurated Monday.

Democratic Lt. Gov. John W. Donahey of Alliance, son of the late Governor and U. S. Senator, A. Vic Donahey.

Democratic State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson of Columbus, a former state auditor.

Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, the only member of the GOP ticket to survive the Democratic landslide last November.

One of DiSalle's first acts as governor was to sign into law a bill passed last week at his request to raise the salaries of most of his Cabinet officials. He approved the measure — which O'Neill could have signed, but ignored — only 25 minutes after he finished his inaugural address. He started to swear in his cabinet only 30 minutes later.

All Cabinet members except Edward A. Stowell of Toledo took their oaths of office. Stowell will serve as assistant superintendent of insurance until a special bill to raise the superintendent's salary from $10,000 to $14,000 a year can be passed by the Legislature later this week.

Stowell's post was cut out of the general pay raise bill for the cabinet last week when a technicality was raised.

A few hours before he left office, O'Neill sent his final "state of the state" message to the legislature.

O'Neill reiterated in his message a campaign claim that more than 35% million dollars remain in Ohio's cash balance. This is a far cry from DiSalle's statement that state financial figures — when they finally are assembled — will show an actual deficit.

Aurora Mayor In Hospital After Brawl

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Mayor Paul Egan, 58, lost a one-round brawl to Aurora City Council's 43-year-old burly sergeant-at-arms Monday.

The usually voluble mayor, who spent the night in St. Charles Hospital, refused to talk about the fight.

Hospital officials declined to report on the condition of Egan, a stormy petrel in Aurora since his election as mayor in 1953. Earlier, however, Dr. J. D. Rossman said Egan had suffered a cut on the right side of his jaw and some bruised swellings on his face. He said the mayor also complained that his back was injured.

In Monday's brief fist encounter, Egan, feuding with his police chief and 64-man police force since last fall, was sent sprawling to the floor in a hallway outside the council chambers from a left to the jaw landed by Herman M. Halbesma, Halbesma, 6 feet 3, 200-pound city building inspector acting as sergeant-at-arms at a council meeting, had bounced the mayor from the council chambers on orders from other commissioners.

The fight climaxed a heated shouting match between Egan and Halbesma that broke up a wild, gavel-banging council meeting.

Egan, banging the gavel, had told the four commissioners that he would consider no business except his order of firing Police Chief Donald Curran. The commissioners ignored him and Egan continued to pound the gavel and shout.

The commissioners then ordered Halbesma to eject the mayor, who is serving his second four-year term. He pulled the struggling Egan from the mayor's chair, off the podium and out to a rear doorway.

Halbesma said Egan roared: "You fat slob, you're strangling me."

"O.K. That's it," Halbesma told the mayor. "I've had enough. You'll apologize for that."

The two men grappled and then Halbesma floored the mayor. Four policemen rushed from the traffic room to halt the fracas. Egan ran down the stairs, jumped into a cab and went to the hospital.

Halbesma, who was not arrested, left the council chamber, commenting "It's a fine way to start a Monday."

New York to Hike Gas Tax Two Cents

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State will raise its gasoline tax by two cents a gallon within a few weeks. It also may increase the income tax and raise its tax on cigarettes.

That was the outlook today as the Legislature's Republican high command moved swiftly to carry out a call by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for higher taxes to balance a record budget of nearly two billion dollars.

After weeks of hinting, Rockefeller disclosed Monday night he had decided the gasoline tax must be increased to six cents a gallon from four.

He had said previously there would be a 230-million-dollar deficit unless additional revenues were found.

He disclosed at a news conference that he also was considering:

1. A wide variety of ways of increasing the yield from the income tax — including a general boost in the tax rate, changes in exemption and a payroll withholding plan.

2. Either a one-cent or two-cent increase in the cigarette tax, now three cents a package.

The summer Reading Club was continued in 1958 with 83 children signing up for the program. The expense for materials and prizes for the 33 children who completed the program was underwritten by Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

The Children's Story Hour was revived last year and regained its popularity.

During the year the building was improved and the interior brightened in keeping with the plans for making the library more attractive and more functional.

Woman May Be First Outer Space Pioneer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A passive, lonely woman may be the first space pioneer.

Col. John Stapp, director of the Air Force's Aeromedical Laboratory at Wright Field, Ohio, says research shows that men "start worrying about their families and become aggressive and irrational" too soon to stand a long and confining trip.

The longest a man has been able to stay in a test chamber has been 42 hours, the colonel told the Alameda-Contra Costa Counties Medical Assn. Monday.

But a single woman who tried, he continued, lasted five days and wanted out only after her food was used up.

"This particular woman was a passive personality and she had no family or close friends to bind her to vital, earthly concerns," he noted.

Traffic Problem Is Vicious Cycle

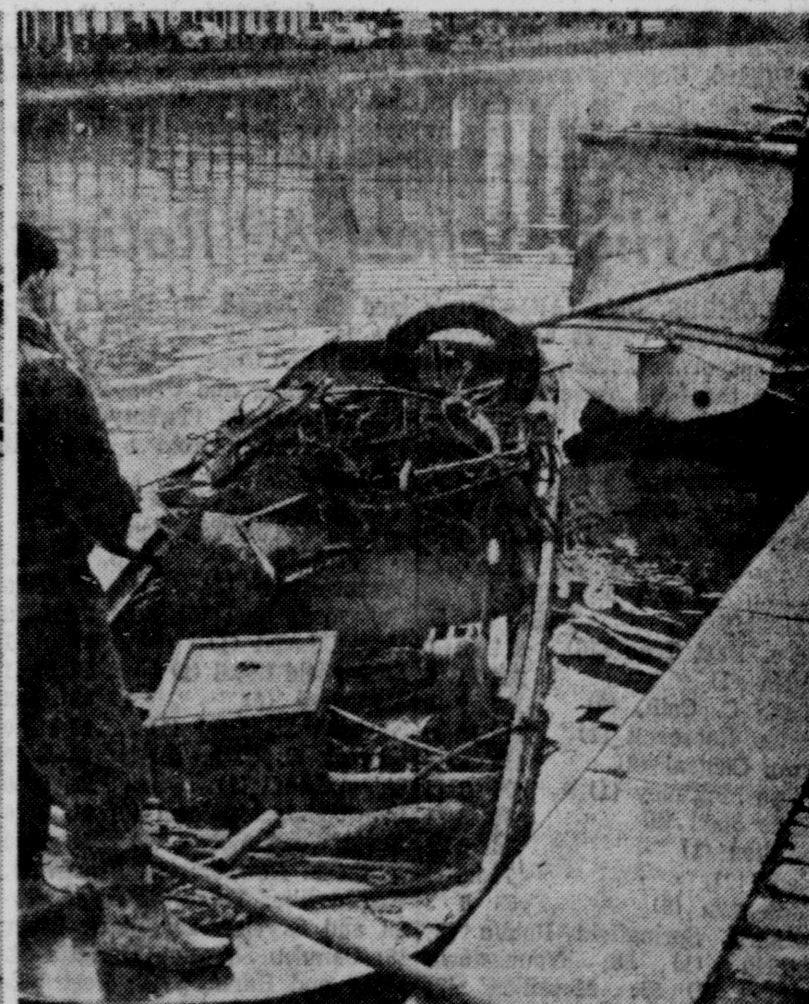

THE CITY of Amsterdam has a traffic problem just as many cities have, but with a difference. In Amsterdam the trouble is caused by bicycles, not automobiles. Just about everyone in Holland travels on the two-wheelers, but it isn't the rolling bikes that give police headaches. It's the abandoned wrecks which litter the streets. In a bike accident, the "driver" doesn't hit and run—he just leaves the bike and walks away. The wrecked bikes are left in the street. Adding to the heap of wrecks are those citizens who return to the parked bikes to find that thieves have stripped them. Rather than take them home they stay where they are. There are also many joy riders who steal bikes and later dump them some place. The police collect all the abandoned bikes and those not chained and put them in storage. Then they're sold.

Rows of bikes crowd a storage area. If unclaimed, they are sold at public auction.

These bikes will be picked up near police station.

City's canals are dumping ground for broken bikes.

Salem Quakers Are Ranked 9th In State In First AP Poll

East Tech First In AA Standings

Canton McKinley 6th, Chaney Ranked 12th

Salem's Quakers, winners of seven games in eight starts this season, were voted into ninth place in Class AA standings today in the first Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school cage teams.

The locals picked up 72 points to rank seven points ahead of 10th place Middletown and just three behind 8th ranked Hamilton.

Canton McKinley is 6th while Youngstown Chaney is 12th. Another Youngstown school, Rayen, is ranked 22nd.

The 1958 defending champions, Cleveland East Tech in AA and Northwestern in A, continue to begin as the top teams, both being undefeated this season.

The two victors in last March's state tournament were voted the best of the new season today as 37 sports writers cast ballots in the opening Associated Press poll. The winning margin of both were terrific.

East Tech, with eight straight wins this year, has a victory streak of 34 over two seasons. Northwestern, unbeaten in 11 starts this campaign, boasts 39 straight conquests.

The Cleveland Scarabs clinched the top spot Friday by handing Cleveland Cathedral Latin its first loss in eight starts at a convincing 69-42 count. Tech picked up 16 of the 37 first place votes and 311 poll points in the 10-9-8-etc basis, to outclass second-place Elyria which garnered 204 as a result of 11 straight victories.

Middletown, which led last year's poll all the way, barely made the top 10 this time, winding up tenth with an 8-3 record. Springfield 11 points back as the final period started, defeated the Middies 58-55 Saturday night. It was the first Greater Ohio League loss in 32 starts for the Butler County ex-champions, and Springfield's first verdict over Paul Walker's proteges since 1954.

Geneva Spencer, which has allowed the foe an average of only 30.5 points in winning 10 straight, finished second in the Class A division poll, in which the voting was sparse.

From Here and There: While three defeated teams made the Class A top 10, a host of perfect record squads failed to land among the elite. They include Convo Union (14), Perry-Zane and Quincy (Logan County) (11), Darby Twp., and Locust Grove (10) Columbus Rosary (9), and Berlin Heights and New Boston (8).

Five of the double-A teams have been beaten, but made the top 10. Xenia Central with 10 straight, Copley with 9, and Bexley of Columbus and Valley of Scioto County with 8 each failed to make the grade.

Hamilton Catholic has a 1-8 record, but all the defeats except one were by six points or less, and all the losses came in the final two minutes. In three straight, the Hamiltons lost to Cincinnati De Porres with five seconds to play, to Covington (Ky.) Catholic with one to go, and to Middletown Fenwick in the last six seconds.

Neport's John Pritchett, a 6-4 junior, scored 40 points twice last week and is averaging 30 for 10 games. Marietta's Frank Christie has a 25.2 average.

Newark Central Catholic (it was St. Francis last year) lists five Class AA teams among its 10 victims. Portsmouth stopped Ironton 50-59 Friday, its first win over the Ironmen in three seasons. Bob Haney of Valley (Scioto) scored 51 Friday, a new school record for the 6-3 senior.

Upper Sandusky has an 8-1 record, the loss being a one-pointer to Willard. Upper is averaging 74 to 48 for the foe. Youngstown Chaney (9-1) was beaten only by Charleroi, Pa., the defending West-

Marks took a 22-16 lead over Foreman at the half and kept ahead at 36-31 going into the final period.

Dean Nicholson led the winners with 18 while George Ramsey had 13, Bob Adams 12 and Dave Hartman 10.

Three Motorists Cited After Rear-End Smash

Three persons were arrested as a result of a traffic accident investigated by the State Highway Patrol Monday.

Patrolmen reported that an auto driven by George Kouach, 27, of Rice's Landing, Pa., struck a car driven by Paul Meier 38, of 181 W. 7th St. from the rear on Rt. 45, one mile north of Lisbon, at 1 p.m.

At the same time a car driven by John Wentz, 38, of Barberton, stopped to avoid hitting Kouach and was struck from the rear by an auto operated by Karl Papielarczyk, 20, of Fredericktown, Pa.

Kouach and Papielarczyk were arrested for failure to stop in the assured clear distance and Wentz for having improper license plates, patrolmen said.

Model Nursery Class Conducted by Students

Fifty-one students from the 11th and 12th grades in Goshen High School who are taking a course in child care under the supervision of Miss Daisy Stackhouse, home economics teacher, conducted a model nursery class at the school this morning.

Both boys and girls are taking the course. Each student was permitted to bring one child in the one-to-four-year-age group to the school for the practice teaching session.

Songs and stories were features of the program which began at 10:30 a.m. and ended at 12:30 p.m. The students baked cookies for the little children, who were given their lunch as part of the schedule.

Each student will write a paper on his observations of the model session.
